

Installation i3-CPU with optional MK-35DV (which is needed)

1. Open the chassis and install the I/O shield and DC-DC power cable (color: black/yellow) which you need to take out of the PSU package.

The listed specifications may be altered at any point in time without any pre-notice. Chieftec® is a registered trade mark. All other brands and/or logos are property of the respective owners.

2. Install the DC-DC board at the front panel. Fix the PSU connectors to the back of the chassis, either on the left or right side.

The listed specifications may be altered at any point in time without any pre-notice. Chieftec® is a registered trade mark. All other brands and/or logos are property of the respective owners.

3. Install the motherboard.

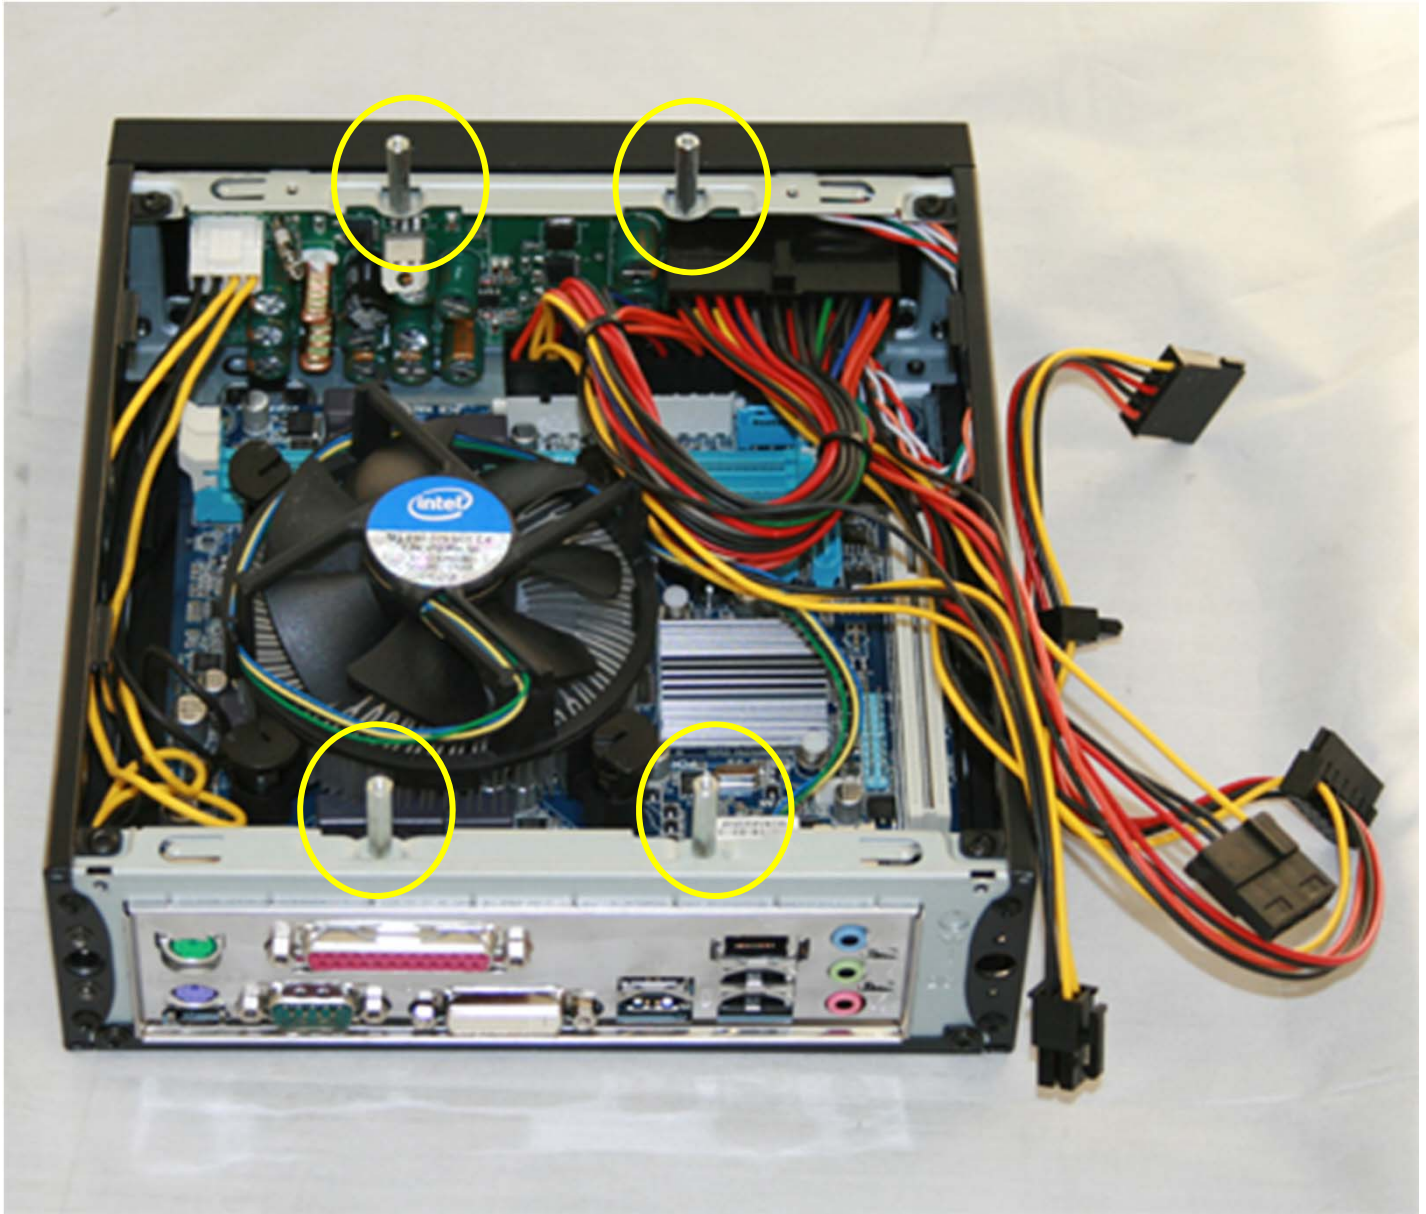

The listed specifications may be altered at any point in time without any pre-notice. Chieftec® is a registered trade mark. All other brands and/or logos are property of the respective owners.

4 Please connect the 24PIN power cable with the mainboard & DC-DC board.

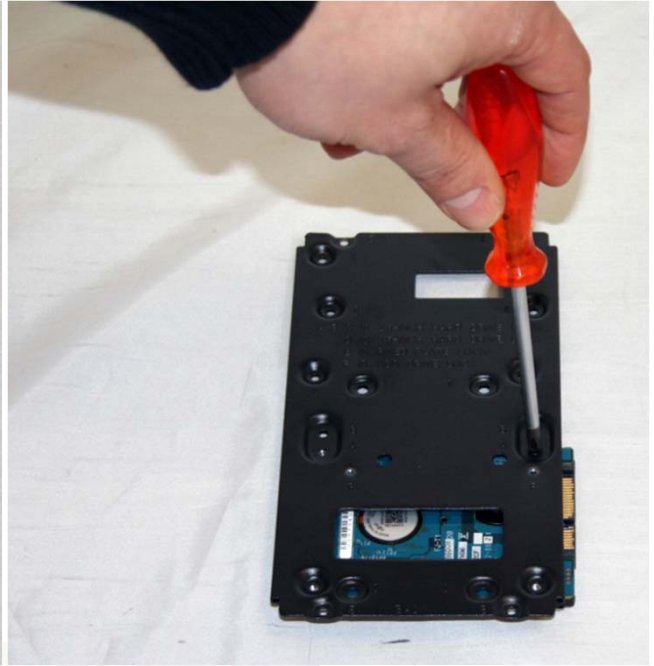

The listed specifications may be altered at any point in time without any pre-notice. Chieftec® is a registered trade mark. All other brands and/or logos are property of the respective owners.

5. Put the 20mm metal pins (found in the package of MK-35DV) into the 4 holes of the chassis

The listed specifications may be altered at any point in time without any pre-notice. Chieftec® is a registered trade mark. All other brands and/or logos are property of the respective owners.

6. Fix one or two 2,5" HDDs with the delivered screws.

The listed specifications may be altered at any point in time without any pre-notice. Chieftec® is a registered trade mark. All other brands and/or logos are property of the respective owners.

7. Connect the SATA HDD power & data cables first.
Mount the HDD holder on top of those 4 pins.

The listed specifications may be altered at any point in time without any pre-notice. Chieftec® is a registered trade mark. All other brands and/or logos are property of the respective owners.

8. Using the cover (found in the package of MK-35DV) to close the top cover and screw the chassis. You are done.

The listed specifications may be altered at any point in time without any pre-notice. Chieftec® is a registered trade mark. All other brands and/or logos are property of the respective owners.